Selectmen's Meeting

AUGUST 27, 1985 - by VIRGINIA ARRAL

REPORTED ON OPEN HOUSE AT FRIENDS MEETING

At last Tuesday's meeting Selectmen Chairman John N. DeCosta reported on his attendance at the Sunday, August 25th, open house at the Friends Meeting House. He said there has been a tremendous change in the interior and that Priscilla Hathaway did a great job with the decorating.

The open house celebration was held so that the public could see the results of the one-year renovations the Meeting House has been undergoing. The open house included a Service of Thanksgiving. Also, members were present to answer questions about the Meeting House, the congregation and its history.

INVITATION TO SERVE AS UMPIRES

The board received an invitation to serve as umpires at the Policemen's annual benefit softball game at 6 p.m. on September 11th or 12th (see next week's Presto) at Center School grounds. All Selectmen plan to attend. Proceeds will benefit the Halloween parade and activities for the young people that the police department sponsors each year.

NEW OFFICER INTRODUCED

Police Lt. James A. Santos introduced a new officer, Dean Duarte, to the board and said Duarte has been a month and a half in training.

In other business, Selectmen:

APPOINTED Milton Heuberger, Jr. as assistand to the harbormaster/wharf commissioner, Steven Mach.

Also appointed was J. Craig Lilly, town band director, to serve as a member of the band committee.

DENIED A REQUEST from Robert Brown, proprietor of Romeo's Package Store, to remain open on Sundays to sell ice and coffee.

Commission) did not recommend this change and the board agreed with that recommendation. Selectmen felt the request was not necessary and that Brown did not cite a hardship.

RECEIVED A LETTER from the state Commissioner of Revenue noting that certain estimated receipts for fiscal 1986 have changed from those previously received on the Cherry Sheet issued in March. The previous figure was $919,211.; the new figure, $918,824 - $287. less. DeCosta commented "it's always less - never more".

READ A LETTER from Paul F. Amoruso, president of the Mattapoisett Lions Club, in which he thanked the Selectmen for their help in making the club's annual Harbor Days Arts and Crafts Fair a resounding success.

He wrote, "In a small town like Mattapoisett an event drawing thousands of people from all over southeastern Massachusetts can only be accomplished with the cooperation of many different groups, organizations, plus individual efforts. While the final tabulation is not yet complete it appears your efforts have contributed towards making this year's event the most successful ever."

ANNOUNCED AN AUGUST 23 decision of the Board of Appeals on the application of Charles and Jill Clerkin of 22 Turner Drive, North Reading, for a special permit to alter a building on a non-conforming lot.

The application, heard at a public hearing on July 25, was allowed for the premises located at 16 Angelica Avenue. As well as I kept gaining and losing the same 20 pounds. Then I said, this time it's going to be different.

I tried every pill, every gimmick to lose weight. Only to feel miserable when I gained it all back. Finally I said no, never again—this time I'm going to Diet Center. I lost the weight, without hunger. And I'm keeping it off.
My only regret? Not going sooner!

Joyce was elected to the office of State Conductress at the annual convention in June.

Since joining the Benjamin D. Cushing Auxiliary in Marion in 1968, Joyce has been very prominent in the VFW organization. She has held several chairmanships and elected offices on the local level, including the office of Auxiliary President for three terms.

For the year 1978-79 Joyce held the office of District 12 President and at the end of her term was awarded for being one of three outstanding District Presidents. Currently she is Treasurer for District 12, a chair which she has held since 1979. Over the years Joyce has served on several committees on the District level, in particular the Miss V.F.W. Our symbol—a single sail against the sky. It says something about our people and the kind of service we provide at Fairhaven Savings Bank.

It suggests a small boat, a personal way to get where you want to go. We're that kind of bank. Informal, accessible and helpful. We make it easy for you to achieve your financial goals.

It has the precise lines which reflect attention to detail. That's how we handle your business. Our service is reliable and consistent. In a word, professional.

Lastly, it reflects our community and its boating tradition—something we've been a part of for more than 150 years. We're close to our customers and responsive to local needs.

As the sail suggests, we're also moving forward to serve you better.

In 1981 as State Cancer Chairman the outstanding programs which she promoted received an award from National Headquarters. And again in 1982, serving as State Hospital Chairman, an award from National was received.

On the community level Joyce has led a very active life. Over the years she has been a Den Mother, a Sunday School teacher, and a member of the advisory board for the Order of Rainbow Girls. She has four children and three grandchildren. Her husband, Gardner "Gabby" McWilliams, has also kept very active in the VFW, working his way over the years until he reached the office of State Commander, during the 1983-1984 term.

Presently Joyce is the President of the Benjamin D. Cushing Auxiliary in Marion, Treasurer of District 12 and State Conductress, along with State Chairman for Community Services.

cal programs since 1962. It is composed of professional, semi-professional, and amateur musicians, including capable students from Bristol, Plymouth, and Barnstable Counties, as well as communities as far away as Lowell, Wellesley, Providence, and the Boston area. The programs consist of classical, semi-classical, and show tunes arranged for the Symphonic Band. Guest soloists from the Boston Symphony, Berklee, Julliard, and other prestigious musical institutions have appeared with the Band. The primary aim of the organization is to provide cultural enrichment to the area, and to provide a musical outlet for the players. The secondary aim is to encourage young people to pursue musical careers in education or performance by providing scholarships to worthy students each year. A total of $34,000 has been awarded to approximately sixty-nine students over the years. The Tri-County Symphonic Band is sponsored by the Tri-County Music Association, Inc. which is a non-profit organization, solely supported by contributions from Benefactors, Patrons, Sponsors, and the sale of season tickets. This cost has tripled in the past dozen years. We rely on "The Burmese Ball" is being held in honor of the centennial exhibition, The Queen's Choice, Burmese, 1885-1985, on view at the Glass Museum through December 29th. "Burmese" art glass was a rare, unique, and precious form of glass invented in New Bedford 100 years ago by Frederick Shirley, manager of the Mount Washington Glass Company. Among Burmese's devotees was Queen Victoria, who collected a substantial number of fine decorated pieces. Burmese is now one of the most precious forms of art glass in the world market.

Ballgoers are encouraged to indulge their fantasies in composing "Burmese" costumes for the evening's revelry.

AN EVENING WITH CHUCK MANGIONE
AT THE ZEITERION THEATRE

On Tuesday, October 29th, at 8:00 p.m. the Zeiterion Theatre will come alive with the wonderful sounds of Chuck Mangione and the Chuck Mangione Quartet, made possible by the Corporate Sponsorship of Freestone's Restaurant.

Mangione's special place in popular music builds upon his growth as an artist, his progress as a composer, bandleader, educator, producer, and musician. In the course of 24 Grammy nominations, he won his first in 1976 for "Bellavia". The album "Children of Sanchez" won him his second Grammy in 1979. In 1980, for ABC-TV Sports, he created the theme song "Give It All You Got" for the 1980 Winter Olympics at Lake Placid, which resulted in an Emmy Award.

A relationship with Dizzy Gillespie, which formed when Mangione was very young, flourished and grew and is still a close one to this day. "I regard Dizzy as my musical father", he now says affectionately.

It is therefore most appropriate that Freestone's Restaurant, who sponsored Gillespie's performance at the Zeiterion

SUNDAY BRUNCH AND HOUSE TOURS

The Rotch-Jones-Duff House & Garden Museum, Inc., in conjunction with four area restaurants, will be offering free house and garden tours to Sunday Brunchgoers. Freestone's, The Main Event, The Mattapoisett Inn, and The Bridge Street Cafe will be giving tickets to Sunday Brunch patrons for a complimentary tour of the Museum, which is located at 396 County Street in New Bedford. The Museum is a private non-profit organization.

The House was built in 1834 as the home of whaling merchant William Rotch, Jr., and was lived in in its 150 year history by only two other families: the Edward Coffin Jones Family (1856-1934) and the Mark M. Duff Family (1935-1981). The Museum is open throughout the year, offering tours, concerts, and other educational programs. This fall, visitors will be seeing restoration in process, as work begins on the reconstruction of the William Rotch Jr. Lodging Room on the first floor.

Fall hours at the Museum are Sundays only

Competition for these grants was on a nation-wide scale. The ASTC seeks to improve the operations of science museums and centers; to serve as a vehicle for cooperative projects of mutual interest to its membership and to advance the role of science museums in society. The Association serves as a clearing house for information, conducts surveys and publishes a newsletter, books and other related material to assist science centers with programs and operations.

"The General Electric Foundation, which funded STEAM, is strongly committed to the strengthening of pre-college education, and we view the science museum as a valuable resource for supplementing the programs of the school systems of our nation", said General Electric Foundation Secretary Paul Ostergard. A total of 53 applications were received this spring; programs were evaluated in June. Only 20 organizations received planning grants.

The Science Teacher Education at Museums project was initiated in response to the severe shortage of qualified elementary and secondary school science teachers, and the National Science Board Commission on Pre-College Education in Mathematics, Science and Technology, which state that "the potential of science museums as a site for teacher training programs should be recognized, encouraged and supported." In announcing the grants, Bonnie VanDorn, Executive Director of ASTC, said, "Schools shouldn't do it all. We need a community-wide effort to improve resources for science teachers."

The Lloyd Center already has teacher training progams with Southeastern Massachusetts University, University of Rhode Island and with several school systems as part of the on-going school programs at the Center. tivities and development of creative teaching and learning aids. The Center will be working with Drs. John Boulmetis and Theodore Kellogg of URI for part of the development of this program and looks forward to working with SMU and other institutions in the planning and implementing of this project. Workshops, based on this planning process, will be offered for teachers, given additional funding is received from ASTC in 1986.

The Lloyd Center is a not-for-profit education and research institution which is supported by contributions, memberships, program fees and corporate and government agency funds. Through these generous donations, the Center offers its facilities free to all.

The Center has constructed 5 trails which traverse through woods, past wooded swamps and a small pond, and along the saltmarsh and Slocum River. One trail passes through an area of forest management and has an interpretive guide available at the Center for 25¢. A Trail Map is located on a display board at the Center's building. As part of the natural history studies at the Center, a bird inventory is performed every week. Results of this count are posted both inside and outside of the building. During most weeks over 40 species of brids including egrets, herons, ospreys, wrens and warblers are found at the Center.

The building includes several aquaria highlighting life in our near shore area.

"The Marie Howard Scholarship for a Nursing Student" fund, through the SMU Alumni Association, will provide scholarships for nursing students in their junior year at SMU's College of Nursing.

Mrs. Howard, who died in February 1984 at St. Luke's Hospital after spending much of her life as a professional nurse, was an associate member of the SMU Alumni Association. In 1983 she and relatives had established a $10,000 scholarship fund through the association in memory of her husband, Dr. W. John Howard, who was a psychiatrist in New Bedford from 1957 to 1971 prior to his death in 1978. That fund provides scholarships to students who graduated from New Bedford High School or Vocational Technical School and, as upperclassmen, are majoring in engineering or computer science.

Both Dr. and Mrs. Howard, English born, started their career at Guy's Hospital in London in the 1930's where she was a radiographer.

After they emigrated to America in 1948 they held posts in hospitals at Concord, New Hampshire, Taunton State Hospital, and Albany Hospital in New York State. In 1956 they moved to New Bedford where Dr. Howard entered private practice in psychiatry and

HINTS FROM VEGETARIANS

Because of the links between some diseases and foods high in cholesterol and saturated fats, Americans are becoming more nutrition-conscious. Although recent research supports the advantages of a vegetarian diet, you do not have to give up meats entirely to reap health benefits.

Try cutting back on meat consumption by using recipes that incorporate less meat and more vegetables. Trim excess fat off of all meats and substitute leaner meats for beef. When cooking chicken or turkey remove the skin, which is high in fat. Fish is a good alternative, but not all fish is low in fat, so don't go overboard on salmon and mackerel.

You can also modify your diet by using low-fat dairy products and halving the number of egg yolks in a recipe when possible.

by thousands of area newspaper readers, will talk informally about his most recent book concerning Henry Huttleston Rogers on September 19th at 7:30 p.m. at Southworth Library, South Dartmouth. Under auspices of the Friends of the Dartmouth Libraries, the event is free and open to the public.

The talk will focus on the humorous aspects of the characters and content in Professor Dias' newest book, published within the year, "Mark Twain and Henry Huttleston Rogers: An Odd Couple".

Recently retired as head of the English Department at Southeastern Massachusetts University, where he was a popular professor in the fields of English and American literature and drama, Mr. Dias has delved deeply into biographical and historical data relevant to both Mr. Rogers, Fairhaven's great benefactor, and Samuel Clemens (Mark Twain), America's great author, humorist and raconteur. The new book is the third to be created from a wealth of information gathered in research. Mr. Dias first published, several years ago, a comprehensive biography of Rogers the industrialist; that outstanding work was followed by a volume of letters, which the biographer edited, written by Clemens to Rogers and/or the family. The newest book, subject of the September lecture, deals with the long-standing friendship of the two men, a phenomenon which belied the marked differences in their personalities.

Renowned for his critical perceptiveness in the realms of music and the performing arts, E.J.D. (his column signature for many years) is equally well-known and read for his puckish wit and humor and his gentle tolerance of human foibles, traits which enhance his insight into the remarkable interaction of personalities of strangely different make-up.

With the prospect of hearing humorous little anecdotes about this odd couple in late Victorian Fairhaven, the audience may look forward to an entertaining evening that blends the information of a literary classroom with the comedy of life as it is, as mirrored by an easy expert in both fields.

The talk will take place in the ground-floor community room of Southworth Library at 732 Dartmouth Street, South Dartmouth. Free parking of autos is available in the lot behind the library.

in the current tax system if it is adopted by Congress and signed into law -- so this is just the tip of the tax reform iceberg.

Tax rates. Single persons with a taxable income between $2,900 and $18,000 would be taxed at the 15 percent rate, and married persons who file jointly would pay at the 15 percent rate on taxable income between $4,000 and $29,000, while joint filers would pay at the 25% rate on taxable income between $29,000 and $70,000. Singles would pay at the top rate of 35 percent on taxable income of $42,000 or more. Those filing jointly would pay at the 35 percent rate on taxable income of $70,000 or more.

Exemptions. An exemption would reduce your taxable income by $2,000, nearly doubling the current exemption of $1,040. You would generally claim one for yourself, your spouse and for each qualified dependent. Those 65 and older and blind persons would no longer be given an extra exemption, but may instead receive a tax credit if they qualify.

ferred to as the "standard deduction", the zero bracket amount is a deduction everyone receives. It is built into the tax table and that part of your income -- along with your exemptions -- is not taxed. The zero bracket amount would increase to $2,900 for single persons, $3,600 for heads of households and $4,000 for married couples filing jointly.

Itemized deductions. These are expenses that can be subtracted from your adjusted gross income. It pays to itemize deductions and file a Form 1040 (long form) only when itemized deductions are greater than the zero bracket amount to which you are entitled. The major itemized deductions allowed under the President's reform proposal include: charitable contributions, mortgage interest on your principal residence, medical expenses that exceed five percent of your adjusted gross income and interest on personal loans up to $5,000 plus investment income.

Lost deductions. Several important deductions would be discontinued under the President's reforms. Itemizers would no longer be permitted to deduct state and local taxes on their federal tax return. Virtually all business deductions for entertainment would be eliminated. Only half the cost of a business meal over $25. (per person) would be deductible, but you can still deduct the first $25. Another big change in deductions: So-called "miscellaneous deductions", for investment advisory fees, tax preparation fees, safe deposit box rentals, professional organization dues, union dues, etc. would be lumped together with employee business expenses not reimbursed by your employer. These items would become adjustments to income. Only those miscellaneous deductions and employee business expenses greater than one percent of adjusted gross income would reduce your tax bill. However, you would no longer be required to itemize to claim these deductions.

IRAs. These are Individual Retirement Accounts that give you a tax break for investing and building a retirement fund. Contributions reduce your taxable income and are not taxed until you withdraw the money. By that time, you'll presumably be in a lower tax bracket. The President's reforms would raise the amount that a married couple with one working spouse can contribute to an IRA from $2,250 to $4,000.

Medical insurance. Employer contributions to medical insurance premiums would be taxed. The first $10 a month for individual coverage and the first $25. a month for family coverage would be added to the employee's gross income.

Two-earner deductions. This currently takes some of the sting out of the so-called "marriage penalty" but would be discontinued under the President's reform package. Working married persons have been allowed to deduct 10 percent of the lower-earning spouse's wages -- up to $3,000 -- from adjustable gross income. This tax break would be eliminated.

Child care expenses. A tax credit that currently defrays the cost of caring for a child while parents are at work would be replaced by a tax deduction. If you meet the eligibility requirements, child care expenses of up to $2,400 for one child and $4,800 for two children would be deductible.

Graphics Exhibit

An exhibition shared by two graphic designers of international reputation that reflects traditional art in contemporary use will be shown in the Southeastern Massachusetts University Gallery from September 17 through October 4.

The works of Lili Wronker, New York designer of book covers and illustrator of children's books, and of Howard Glasser, professor in SMU's design department, will be jointly exhibited.

Lili Wronker was introduced to beautiful children's books by her parents in Berlin, where she was born. One of the books was about a little girl who made sketches wherever she went. Little Lili adopted that practice at a very early age and continues it to this day. Lili's family was Jewish and with the rise of Hitler during the late 1930s her family moved to New York City. There, her talent was recognized, and she took the job as assistant to Arnold Bank, who was then the head of the promotion department at Time-Life, Inc. Since then, Lili's clients have included many of the biggest publishing houses, including Viking Press, Oxford University Press, Harcourt Brace, MacMillan, Dutton, and others. Lili's art as illustrator, calligrapher and designer has been honored by the American Institute of Graphic Arts, and her work is represented in many fine collections around the world. Lili and her husband, Erich, share a common love of beautiful books and letterforms. Together they established the Ron Press, in their bedroom, where they produce broadsides and little books for pleasure.

Lili was a founding member of the Society of Scribes and the American Printing History Association. She has traveled widely, giving lectures and workshops.

Professor Howard Glasser came to SMU in 1970 with a reputation as a graphic designer and calligrapher for his work commissioned by major publishers and institutions. He founded and for many years directed the Eisteddfod-Ceilidh traditional arts project which resulted in 15 years of informal music-making sessions, concerts, festivals, workshops, exhibitions, and publications. It was quite natural for him to do most of the graphics for his ambitious SMU project. This exhibition serves as a review of some of these events, as well as to show a range of graphics by Glasser done over a long period of time.

Located in the SMU College of Visual and Performing Arts (Group VI) Building, the Gallery is open from 11 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday through Friday, September 17 - October 4, and on Saturday, September 21. Admission is free.

The exhibition is sponsored by the SMU Gallery, the Eisteddfod, and Letterworks.

if it is not an emergency," said Stanton Belinkoff, M.D., Director of Quality Assurance at St. Luke's Hospital of New Bedford. The organization responsible for approving hospital services to Medicare patients is called the Peer Review Organization or PRO. The PRO is made up of licensed physicians practicing in Massachusetts who, on behalf of the federal government, look at and approve how Medicare patients use hospitals. The purpose of the PRO is to keep Medicare costs down while assuring good care.

Some of the Medicare rules include the following:

*For non-emergency (elective cases) doctors must get the approval of the PRO before admitting Medicare patients to the hospital. The approval process can take up to ten days.

*In most cases, Medicare will not pay for any days spent in the hospital before surgery.

*The PRO must also approve all transfers to rehabilitation or chronic care hospitals.

*Emergency cases can be admitted to the hospital. However, the PRO will also review emergency hospital admissions to determine if they were medically necessary. If they determine that the emergency was not medically necessary Medicare will not pay the hospital.

*Without the approval of the PRO, Medicare will not pay the hospital. If patients and their doctors decide that they should be admitted without the PRO approval, the patient will have to pay the hospital.

*Patients or someone representing the patients can ask the PRO to reconsider cases that the PRO did not approve.

The PRO will not approve certain admissions to the hospital for diagnostic testing or for illnesses, such as diabetes, hypertension, back problems, or digestive tract problems unless certain criteria are met. Other non-emergency surgical procedures which need approval of the PRO include hernia repair, cataracts, gynecological cases, digestive tract surgeries, gall bladder, hemmorhoids, varicose veins, deviated septum, and some orthopedic cases.

According to St. Luke's Hospital President Alfred J. Smialek, the hospital is following the guidelines. "We know that the Medicare rules are sometimes difficult for patients and their families to understand and can cause some uncertainty about their care," he said. Mr. Smialek encourages Medicare patients to get more information from their doctors or to call St. Luke's Admitting Office if they have questions.

COUNSELOR TRAINING PROGRAM

The Rape Crisis Project of the New Bedford Women's Center is beginning its fourth Counseling Training Program and is currently registering interested people to participate.

Elizabeth Bennett, the Education Coordinator of the Rape Crisis Project, says that in addition to learning the medical, legal, emotional, and psychological aspects of sexual assault, particpants will also learn specific skills that can be applied to many aspects of their lives.

"People frequently experience crises and difficulties in their lives", Bennett explains, "and the crisis intervention and short term counseling skills we teach can help people to better handle their own life situations."

The Rape Crisis 24-Hour Hotline was established nearly two years ago. During that time, counselors have worked with over 200 victims of sexual assault and their families.

Ms. Bennett explains the need for sexual assault victims to receive counseling. "Experts have determined," she said, "that victims of violence who are left unsupported often develop a pattern of perpetuating that violence. Males tend to become abusers, and females often involve themselves in abusive relationships." The counseling provided by the Women's Center, she said, is a "tremendous way to relieve the plight of sexual assault victims, as well as to interrupt the cycle of violence, that is so dangerously affecting our whole society."

But, as the counselors of the Rape Crisis Project admit, they are unable to keep up with the hotline and counseling load by themselves. They currently work with a group of fifteen dedicated volunteers, and are hoping to train at least as many more in September. They are seeking both female and male applicants for the training.

Participants need no prior experience. The intensive training will teach all the skills necessary. In return, the Project requests a six month commitment from trainers to staff the Hotline from their home telephone for three to four days or evenings a month.

Bennett urges all those who are interested and who have the time, to register for the training by calling 993-1842 before Friday, September 13th. The Program will begin on September 18th and will meet each Wednesday evening for seven weeks.

its chemical base, calcium and phosphorus (Calcium Phosphate), combined with water molecules. HA imitates natural bone and has been described as "even better than bone" since it does not resorb, or disappear, as bone does under certain conditions. For example, bone resorption under dentures might result in altered facial appearance, impaired speech, and difficulty in chewing food. In treating that problem, HA offers a simpler alternative to past procedures such as bone grafting or tissue transplanting, extensive surgery that is more costly and debilitating to the patient.

This new substance has been tested and approved by the Federal Drug Administration for use in dental surgery and is also available for treating bone loss around teeth (pyorrhea). A Tobey Hospital Oral and Maxillofacial Surgeon, Paul N. Sharek, explains, "When teeth are removed the the bone surrounding the empty tooth socket resorbs, over a period of time. To prevent this, the HA material can be implanted at the time of the extraction, or used to repair long standing edentulous (toothless) jaws). The alveolar ridge (the part of the jawbone that supports the teeth) can be rebuilt with the HA material so that dentures may be fitted properly."

The implantation procedure, which has been performed at Tobey Hospital by Dr. Sharek, may be performed under local anesthesia as outpatient surgery in the hospital setting, or in the surgeon's office. It involves several minor incisions in the gum and the insertion of the HA material just under the tissue. In cases where bone has degenerated considerably, the HA substance is molded to restore the shape and height of the original jawbone. Since HA is the same type of mineral found naturally in bones, (most bones are 65% HA in composition) the new "bone" bonds as if it were natural bone and, after several weeks, a solid, stable ridge is formed.

HA is useful in reconstructive facial surgery secondary to traumatic injuries, also in the correction of congenital deformities such as cleft palates and misaligned jaws. Other application includes its use in dental tooth implantology. According to available information, the new bone substitute is under FDA study for applications in orthopedic surgery.
